C++ v0.7 (2023)

Yihsiang Liow

I hope one day I have notes (openbooks) for all my classes so that students won't have to spend 100s of dollars on books. This is one of them. It's still under heavy construction.

Goal
Learn C++ programming, learn some CS stuff, and have fun.

Audience
Anyone who can read, has access to a computer, feels comfortable using a computer, has some basic math background, and most importantly, wants to learn.

Disclaimer
I hope the number of errors in this set of notes is close to zero. Please report bugs to yliow@ccis.edu.

PS
For more info on C++, check out my CISS350, CISS362, and other miscellaneous C++ notes.

The following students have helped extensively in the writing of these notes:

- Ujjwal Pandey
- Ryan Frappier
- Andrew Woods

Many students have pointed out typos including

- Kevin Weston
- Saurav Bhattarai
- Eric Garcia
- Cole Schwandt
- Ryan Harvey
- Etc.

The list is not complete. If you did point out an error but is not mentioned, please let me know. I think maybe in the future I should include names of contributors in the right margin.
